Notes:

At the conclusion of WWII, the Soviets absorbed Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania and immediately banned Scouting. The establishment of Communism controlled Eastern Europe resulted in the ending of Scouting in Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Poland, and Romania.

In the last couple of decades other countries came under totalitarian control and banned Scouting. Such was the case in Myanmar, Mainland China, Cuba, Laos, Vietnam, and Afghanistan.

Scouting exists (apparently working toward WOSM recognition; started as of 2/2004)

Girl Scouts are believed to be working towards membership.
